AUTHORS PLEASE NOTE:

Please use the web address <http://journals.hil.unb.ca/index.php/GC/index> for submissions; please do not submit articles directly to the editor.

The Mission of the Geological Association of Canada is to facilitate the scientific well-being and professional development of its members, the learned discussion of geoscience in Canada, and the advancement, dissemination and wise use of geosciences in public, professional and academic life. Articles in Geoscience Canada are freely available two years after their publication date, unless authors have arranged for immediate open access. Opinions expressed and interpretations presented are those of the authors and do not necessarily reflect those of the editors, publishers and other contributors. Your comments are welcome.

Cover Photo: Geologists like nothing more than a puzzle. Fisherites Reticulatus (left, seen here in the famous Tyndall Stone) has been all over the taxonomic map, but its true affinities remain a mystery. The bizarre "Molar Tooth Structure" (right, seen here in Precambrian dolomite) has long puzzled observers, and has recently been interpreted as a product of fluidization caused by the shaking of ancient earthquakes. See Brian Pratt's presidential address for more discussion!
